

AGENT ANNOUNCEMENT

George Slater

Welcome George Slater to the Brokerworks Family!

We've got a fantastic new addition to Brokerworks, and we can't wait for you all to meet him! George Slater is jumping into real estate with the same precision and strategy that he's applied throughout his career in finance—and trust us, this guy knows numbers.

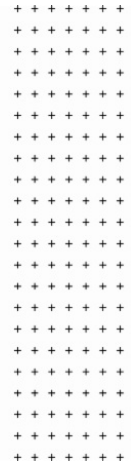

George's background? Think high-level finance, business analytics, and strategic planning. Before joining us, he was the VP of Finance at BioTown Biogas, managing financial strategy, cash forecasting, and revenue analysis. He's also worked in financial planning at PEAK6 InsurTech, honing his ability to break down complex data into actionable insights.

So why real estate? Turns out, he and his wife Kelly got a taste of the market in 2019 when they started investing in Airbnb properties—and from there, the passion took off. Now, George is focused on building Brokerworks' commercial division while also working with investors looking to buy, rent, or flip properties.

George brings a detail-oriented and data-driven approach to real estate, ensuring that every client feels fully informed throughout the process. His background in finance and analytics means he thrives on strategy and precision, making transactions seamless and transparent. Beyond the numbers, he is deeply passionate about home equity, believing that buyers and sellers should fully understand the value of their properties and how to maximize their investment.

Outside of real estate, George is a dedicated cyclist, competing in 6-9 races each year and logging up to 5,000 miles annually—so if you're thinking about challenging him to a ride, you might want to start training now. When he's not on his bike, you

Please join us in giving George a warm welcome!
